CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION MAKES ATTACK

Charles A. Smurthwaite, Representing the Brewer People, Publishes an Open Letter Which Is Filled With Slanderous References to Wm. Glasmann.

Charles A. Smurthwaite, chairman of the Democratic City convention which nominated Alex. Brewer for mayor, and who, therefore, must be accepted as the mouthpiece of his nominee, has issued an "Open Letter to William Glasmann," which appeared in the Examiner this morning and is here reproduced for the purpose of disclosing, first, the character of the men who are leading the Democratic campaign; second, the desperate straits to which they are driven; third, the moral turpitude of a man like Charles A. Smurthwaite who, the head of a little family, stoops so low and becomes so vulgar and coarsely insinuating as to make a woman of the under the sole topic of his public utterance, coupling her name with that of another man, also the head of a family, and doing so on nothing but the low, evil promptings of a mind steeped in nasty conceptions and base creations, without one known or substantiated fact on which to establish his filthy libel.

The article taken from this morning's Examiner is as follows:

Smurthwaite's Open Letter.

In addressing to you what follows, Bill, you will not doubt be astonished to note the entire absence of the word "libel." The reason is obvious: your reputation in the community is so distinctive that it is not necessary to so describe any of your statements. Let me say at the outset, Bill, that I am not an issue in this campaign notwithstanding you are doing your best to make me one. I am in harmony with your favorite pastime of desperately attempting to establish the false that the true may be overshadowed.

In thinking over your waterworks campaign, and your failure to get them, and some other things, try and remember what David Copperfield said to Uriah Heep: "It may be profitable to you to reflect, in future, that there never were greed and cunning in this world yet that did not do too much and overreach themselves. It is an ancient maxim, and I think it is as applicable to you as to me." Exactly as if describing you, Bill.

Charles Dickens, in "Hunted Down," again fairly describes you, Bill, as if comparing you to Brewer, in the following words: "Dishonesty will stare honesty out of countenance any day of the week if there is anything to be gained by it"—for instance, the mayorality of Ogden and the advertising patronage, etc., etc.

And this leads me to say, Bill, that it would be an honor to be "Friday" to Alex. Brewer, a man of pure personal life and whose commercial and public life is equally blameless. But what may be said of you, Bill, who are "Friday" to Belle, "Ogden's Queen" by your grace.

You know, Bill, that I never owned a salt farm, as could not have offered one for sale to the church at any price or at all. If you will prove that I did, I will give you $1,000. Say, Bill, here's a chance to gratify your well known love of money. My money is as good as Belle's, Bill.

As to that new church, Bill, it is not likely that Divine Providence, or any other providence will set you aside to start a new church, but I rather fancy Satan might, if he could trust you, but he couldn't as you well know. But if you felt sure you could set one up yourself, there is no doubt you would do it, Bill, and any old scoundrel could shadow what your commandments would be. Chief among them would be this: "Thou shalt have no other gods before Bill, my only shalt thou serve, whether in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth, thou shalt not take the name of Bill in vain, for Bill will not hold thee guiltless if thou takest his name in vain; thou shalt bear false witness against thy neighbor if there by thou canst help Bill." In arranging your "Sacred" services, you would command that the "Doxology" to be sung at the opening and closing of all services (called by the profane Republican primaries, conventions, and political meetings) shall be:

Praise Bill from whom all blessings flow (to Bill).

Praise him, ye creatures down below (in the alley).

Praise him above, ye gambling hogs.

Praise Bill, Praise Bill, Praise our Bill.

And they are doing it already in anticipation of what a power the "praise" and "prayers" would have if the promise was, "the prayers of the wicked availeth much."

You know, Bill, that I did not testify against any man at Washington, but that in answer to the command of the United States government I related, under oath, an incident in my life. It is printed in full and completely refutes your—my, Bill, I was almost tempted to use an ugly epithet; but it isn't necessary. You understand, Bill, don't you?

But really, Bill, you know that all these things are immaterial to the issues in this campaign. You know what the real and only issue is, Bill. I gave it to you Saturday night. It is this: "Will you govern Ogden, if elected mayor, like you did before?" That is all there is to it. I challenged you to answer that categorically but you entirely ignore it. Why, Bill?

As to the $500.00 you so kindly offer for proof of the charges I made in my speech at the Democratic convention, I suggest to you, Bill, a more effective and economical way, and the cheapness of it (while not as cheap as yours) ought to commend itself to you: that is, invoke the courts, which are the only competent and proper tribunals to pass upon the proofs, to find my Saturday speech true or false. Say, Bill, Dickens in his Pickwick Papers, says: "If your destiny leads you into public life and public station, you must expect to be subjected to temptations, which other people are free from." So we must, after all, Bill, be charitable toward you. We know you succumbed before, but we must really take into consideration your extra temptations. But that is not saying, Bill, that we should "tempt" you again, do we?

Ogden, Utah, October 14th, 1909. P. S.—Pardon my forgetfulness, Bill, but I almost overlooked that little matter of being mayor if Brewer is elected. Be it so, if you will, Bill. But who will be mayor if you are elected?—Belle, Bill?

GLASMANN'S REPLY TO SMURTHWAITE'S ATTACK

One Thousand Dollars Deposited in Bank for Proof of Coarse Insinuations—Smurthwaite Lost to All Sense of Decency.

Charles A. Smurthwaite: Do you mean to insinuate that I ever received a dollar from "Your Belle, Queen of Ogden," or that I ever sent a dollar, directly or indirectly, at her place? Can you show that I ever visited her place other than on two occasions when I accompanied preachers on trips of inspection?

Speak out! You have my permission to make public any act of mine in connection with "Belle, Queen of Ogden," or with that of any other public woman.

Chas. Smurthwaite, you know that my moral life is clean. Why then do you insinuate that I have relations with "Belle, Queen of Ogden?" You squirm and whine because I called you a "liar," when, a few days ago in the Democratic convention, you assailed my character. What better word could I have used for such malicious, false and contemptible assaults as you make? Have you no respect for your own family, even if you have none for mine?

I have deposited $1,000 at the First National Bank to be paid to you on presentation of the proof that I ever had any discreditable or any other relations of any kind with Belle London or with any other respectable woman. Now, if you object to being called a liar, present your proof and receive $1,000.

(Signed) WM. GLASMANN. I give for Plain City this morning, and will give you salt farm my attention tomorrow.

"October 15, 1909. "Received from William Glasmann the sum of $1,000 to be paid to Chas. Smurthwaite on receipt of the legal proof that William Glasmann ever in his life had any dishonorable relations with the woman referred to in Smurthwaite's attack on Glasmann."

"First National Bank, Ogden, "JOHN PINGREE, Cashier."

would show Mr. Crane to have been the victim of a political intrigue.

"While Mr. Crane's official relations are definitely ended," said Mr. Fisher, "there are many things connected with this matter of such a character and appearance that the American people must continue to be deeply concerned in them. Mr. Crane has preferred not to go into them now because of the possibility that a public discussion at this time might be harmful to the public interest. So far as he personal indignity and the harassment that has occurred which has been due to the publicity, the responsibility is on the department of state and not on Mr. Crane. He did not even trust his telegram to the president's private secretary to be sent in cipher. Not until Secretary Knox gave out his astounding statement to the press did Crane make any public statement and even then he purposely omitted many important and significant matters because it might injuriously affect public interests to mention them now."

"In the long tide across the continent to Washington, Mr. Crane did not mention the reason for his recall. He could not, as he did not know that the offending newspaper ar-

Crane's Friends Claim He Is the Victim of Trickery

New York, Oct. 15.—Charles R. Crane who was appointed minister to China and who was recalled just as he was about to sail for his post, declined today to reveal what his friends declare are the real reasons for his retirement. Of these friends, however, Walter L. Fisher, of Chicago, intimated that the incident was far from closed and that revelations which would be made in due time,

He had been published and did not see it until the day after he reached Washington. It is deeply significant that none of the scores of newspaper men whom he met on his journey mentioned this article or any "canards" concerning an American protest to Japan.

"The importance of the article may be judged from the fact that it was not suspected of being the cause until the tip was given in Washington, and not from Mr. Crane.

"It is due to Mr. Crane also to note that in carrying out the president's wishes that he should do some vigorous public speaking and in the absence of instructions in the state department to refrain carefully confined himself to lines laid down by Mr. Taft himself in the famous Shanghai speech ringing with vigorous Americanism and so definitely friendly to the Chinese that it ended all talk of the dismemberment of China.

"When he let them have it hot Mr. Crane talked only of the common interests of America and China and he received no criticism from the state department.

Those who are so concerned about whether he was pro-Japanese or anti-Japanese seem unable to understand a man who has been first, last and all the time simply pro-American; and as the American minister to China, also pro-Chinese, his only thought in connection with the offending newspaper article was that if the American government should decide that its interest in the 'open door' demanded a protest, the American press should then be prepared to discuss it intelligently and effectively.

"The possibility of a protest was so much a matter of common knowledge that the offending article in which it was mentioned, attracted no particular attention. It was not until after its connection with Mr. Crane's recall leaked out in Washington, that the Japanese embassy sent to the newspaper offices for a copy of the article.

"The effort to involve Mr. Millard as the real cause of Mr. Crane's recall is equally unfounded. Mr. Millard had a commission to write some magazine articles on the Far East and asked if there was any objection to his traveling on the same ship with Mr. Crane, who consented, with the approval of the president, with whom Millard had once traveled.

"It will be recalled that Mr. Millard also addressed that celebrated Shanghai meeting and that Mr. Taft then publicly spoke of him as one 'who has written much and well on the Far East and has given close attention to the statistics of the trade between China and the various countries of the world.'

"The fact that because Mr. Millard is vigorously pro-Chinese, he is put down as anti-Japanese, may throw some light on the present situation. But the entire matter can be understood and discussed more intelligently and safely as the facts become public property in the future."

CHARLES CRANE HAS HAD NO PRESS AGENT

New York, Oct. 15.—Charles R. Crane, whose resignation as United States minister to China, was accepted, has arrived here with his family and an advance party. Mr. Fisher of Chicago, and today they expect to meet Mr. Crane's father, Richard T. Crane, who left Chicago yesterday. Following the conference, it is probable that a statement will be issued. The elder Mr. Crane has taken a lively interest in the resignation of his son, having declared that he was the victim of a plot.

Although the deposed diplomat insisted on his arrival here that the incident was closed, at least temporarily, Mr. Fisher declared that Mr. Crane's friends had strongly to the contrary and intimated that future events might throw interesting information upon what they have sought to stamp as a "political intrigue."

Mr. Crane said that he knew absolutely nothing of the Chicago interviews which was made the basis of Mr. Crane's recall. He said he reached Washington, until then, no one had mentioned that matter to him.

Mr. Fisher said that Mr. Crane never had in all his public statements since his appointment gone outside of the limits set by President Taft in his speech at Shanghai in 1905. "The contention that Mr. Crane had engaged a newspaper man as a press agent was a downright falsehood," said Mr. Fisher in the presence of Mr. Crane. "This newspaper man was bound for the Orient for the purpose of writing magazine articles and asked Mr. Crane if it would embarrass him if he went to China on the steamer with him. That man sailed for China on the ship Mr. Crane intended to take and on board of it is Ambassador O'Brien bound for Tsingtau and assured that Mr. Crane will not be accused of having a press agent."

COOK-PEARY CONTROVERSY CAUSES SOME IMPATIENCE

Washington, Oct. 15.—The University of Copenhagen has been asked by the National Geographic society to renounce its first claim to an examination of Dr. Cook's observations made during his search for the pole. The message, signed by Willis T. Moore, president of the National Geographic society, said: "The National Geographic society requests waiver your first claim to Cook's observations of latitude and longitude. American scientists impatient at delay and feel that this is a matter that should be settled in America."

A message was also sent to Commander Peary at Eagle Harbor, Me., saying:

"Board of National Geographic society wishes to act upon your expedition at regular meeting next Wednesday. Canyon not immediately forward us sufficient records to justify action then?"

Vaughn, a real estate dealer, now serving a four months' sentence in the county jail here for assault with a dangerous weapon, was filed yesterday in the municipal court today by District Attorney Cameron, charging Vaughn with attempting to injure by poisoning Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin of the woman's auxiliary of the Portland police department. The information charges Vaughn with sending through the mails a quantity of tea containing sufficient strychnine to kill. Vaughn will be arrested before his present term expires. The tea was received by Mrs. Baldwin in a package mailed at Seattle ten days ago.

FAVORABLE TO DR. COOK

Prominent Mining Man Had Correspondence With Barrill

Hartford, Ark., Oct. 15.—James A. Bolen, a coal mining operator well known in the southwest and who says he has hunted with the companions who made the Mount McKinley trip with Dr. Frederick Cook, is credited with declaring here today that he did not believe Edward Barrill had signed the Mount McKinley affidavit credited to him in the story sent out from New York yesterday.

Mr. Bolen is president of the Bolen-Darnell Coal company of McAlester, Okla., and was in Hartford today on business. He formerly lived in Kansas City. When Dr. Cook lectured at Kansas City on October 7, Mr. Bolen met and talked with the explorer. Mr. Bolen was credited with having, during that interview, told Dr. Cook a story of the Mount McKinley trip of exploration that had been related to him by Dr. Cook's guides, Barrill and Fred Prince. To a representative of the Associated Press here today, Mr. Bolen declared he did not believe Barrill had signed the affidavit furnished to him. Mr. Bolen agreed to furnish a statement of the story he had told Dr. Cook at Kansas City and as related to him by the explorer's guides.

Mr. Bolen said to the Associated Press: "I have on file at my office either in Kansas City or McAlester, Okla., correspondence with Barrill and Fred Prince, Cook's guides. In his two ascents of Mount McKinley, until I see the pictures which Cook has of these two guides, and can verify their signatures, I will not believe that Barrill signed that affidavit denying that they reached the summit."

"Until I examine that correspondence I can talk from memory. I associated with Prince and Barrill in 1905 and corresponded afterwards. My recollection is, that these letters told of the attempt to scale Mount McKinley in 1904 which failed two thousand feet from the summit. The letters describe the successful ascent in 1906 and state positively that they did reach the summit and that Barrill claimed to have reached the summit a few feet ahead of Cook."

"Fred Prince was an attaché of the federal survey party that surveyed the line between Montana and Idaho and recommended by officials of this party to Cook as a guide."

TWO MEN ARE HELD FOR MURDER OF GIRL

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 15.—Wilfrid Thibault and "Professor" Frank Hill, who were examined here yesterday, in connection with the Thibault (R. I.) tragedy, were formally charged with the murder of Amelia St. Jean, of Woonsocket, R. I., in police court here today. Both pleaded not guilty. The case was continued for ten days. The men were committed to the Fall River jail without bail.

Thibault is 25 years of age and has a wife and two children. For the last eighteen months he has worked as chauffeur for a local attorney. Previous to that he was employed for about two years in the office of a physician here.

Hill is 44 years of age and has a wife and one child. He has maintained offices as an "herb doctor" here for some time.

The main evidence on which the men are held, according to the police, is comprised in admissions said to have been made by both that they were acquainted with the St. Jean girl and that she had taken them into her confidence on subjects personal to herself.

He was engaged in the automobile supply business here.

RICH DISCOVERIES IN BANNOCK CAMP, NEVADA

Bannock Camp, via Battle Mountain, Nev., Oct. 14.—Nevada is again in the limelight. Last August, a Colorado prospector, Alex Walker, who has visited the part of the county eleven miles southwest of the town of Battle Mountain for five years, past, found a bunch of free gold sticking out of the ground about 800 feet south of a location he had made two years before. Five feet of work showed a blue quartz and oxidized porphyry, and a streak two inches wide, being almost pure metallic gold. He directed the attention of Q. S. Wilhelm, general manager of the Nevada-Omaha Milling & Mining Co., whom he met in Battle Mountain, to the find, with the result that a sale was at once made. Assays from all material from the five-foot hole outside the high-grade returned $4,500 to the ton, and from the "picture rock," which Walker picked out he got a button that showed a value of $180,000 to the ton.

Late in September Manager Wilhelm started a shaft on the find. To the shaft is twenty feet deep, and the high-grade streak varies from two to four inches in width. This is picked out with a candle stick, and there is $180,000 worth of gold now ready for shipment.

Many operators from different parts of Nevada declare the district will make Goldfield sit up and take notice.

WORK ASBESTOS MINE ON WESTERN PACIFIC

From C. E. Trimble and F. E. Raymond, who are in Quincy today from the Cromberg section, it is learned that a fine showing is being made on the asbestos deposit discovered and located about two years ago near the eastern portal of the Western Pacific's long Spring Garden tunnel. The location, which includes five claims, is now owned by C. E. Trimble of Crom-berg and W. M. Richards and W. J. Clinch of Quincy.

The asbestos formation is of the cross-fiber variety, the fiber running eight inches to two feet in thickness, according to the report. The deposit has been developed by ten open cuts and one shaft for a distance of between 400 and 500 feet in all of which asbestos has been found. Samples of the mineral taken from this claim are on display at the Plumas county mining bureau, and the specimens show good quality of asbestos, with unusual length of fiber—a very desirable attribute.

The owners of the property have already received offers to purchase, but as yet no deal has been made. Most of the asbestos deposits in Canada and the United States, in fact, all of any consequence, are controlled by the trust, and any promising prospect is usually snapped up by it. Nearly all of the asbestos used in the United States comes from Canada, there being only a few deposits of a very inferior quality in this country. However, this discovery in Plumas county promises to be an exception to the rule, and a verdict on its commercial value will be awaited with interest.

It is stated that a mining man who claimed to be well informed on the subject recently visited the property and stated that the showing was far ahead of any other in the state.—Plumas National Bulletin.

WORD FROM ROOSEVELT.

Nairobi, Oct. 15.—Colonel Roosevelt today sent a cable to Commander Peary at Portland, Maine, saying: "I deeply appreciate your cable and congratulate you from my heart. All Americans and indeed all civilized mankind are your debtors. You performed one of the greatest feats of the age. Theodore Roosevelt."

The Roosevelt party arrived here this afternoon from the north of Quas Nyro. All are well. A reporter accompanying the party was tossed by a rhinoceros but he is recovering.

Colonel Roosevelt has killed three more elephants, completing the group intended for the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. He has also killed a bull elephant for the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Other game bagged included a rhinoceros with excellent horns, a buffalo, an ibex, a zebra, an ostrich and an oryx.

Some of the skins have been preserved for the Washington museum. Kermit Roosevelt killed two elephants and an exceptionally large rhinoceros.
